PREFACE

1. This catalog sets forth the objectives and content of courses given by, or arranged through, the Office of Training. In addition, it provides information on certain Non-OTR training conducted by other Agency components. It has been prepared to assist all Agency officials in planning the development of personnel through training. Arrangements for training should be made through the Training Officer in each case.
2. Available courses of training are grouped within this catalog according to the following sections: "B" (Basic Training), "I" (Intelligence Training), "L" (Language and External Training), "O" (Operations Training), "T" (Technical Training), and "N" (Non-OTR Training).
3. Courses grouped under sections "O" and "T" are restricted to personnel serving with the Clandestine Services. Other courses are open to personnel from all CIA components. Accordingly, this catalog has been prepared and distributed throughout Headquarters in two versions. This permits distribution to each B-level recipient of a catalog appropriate to his needs, and assures availability of the complete version to all A-level recipients for their information.
4. Each course listing provides the following information: course title, brief statement of course objectives, prerequisites in terms of security clearance and prior training or equivalent experience, limitations on enrollment, duration, location and, with the exception of some clerical courses, a description of the course content and the method of instruction employed.
5. In addition to those at Agency facilities, courses at Department of Defense schools and a variety of other professional courses are available to CIA personnel. These external courses are listed in the "L" section of the Catalog, and enrollment is arranged through the Office of Training. Enrollment in certain senior non-Agency courses is subject to prior action by Agency selection panels.
6. Under certain circumstances, the Office of Training is prepared to conduct special courses and training programs for personnel of other IAC agencies. For some OTR courses, quotas are established for representatives of the intelligence community.
7. For the convenience of the user, this catalog includes an Administrative Foreword, providing detailed information relative to planning training programs and initiating requests for training; a Table of Contents; and a set of Long-Term Schedules, providing course date and duration information.

PREREQUISITES Top Secret clearance

Pretest

ENROLLMENT 10 to 50 (Students may be enrolled for all, or for portions of the course, as required)

DURATION Three weeks (120 hours)

LOCATION Headquarters

The purpose of this course is to indoctrinate clerical personnel of the DDS, DDI and DDP. (Officer personnel, and those of the clerical level for whom increased responsibility and authority are imminent, should be scheduled for Operations Support.)

During the first week of the course, organization, general office regulations and procedures as applied in the use of vouchered funds will be emphasized. The second week concerns an introduction to clandestine activities, and the administrative regulations and procedures that apply to DDP Headquarters; and the third week the overall field procedures.

Students receive comprehensive problems in name checks, dispatch, pouch, cable and message writing procedures; unvouchered funds procedures of domestic and foreign travel; finance and property accounting. Agency regulations and procedures are covered by an objective test.

Lectures examine the organization, mission and functions of the Agency and the Clandestine Services, and orient the student in relation to his function and responsibility to the Agency. Defensive security is stressed, particularly with regard to its application to the administrative elements of a clandestine organization.

TITLE Operations Support

OBJECTIVES Basic principles, theory, and doctrine of clandestine organization and activity

Problems of administrative support into clandestine operations

PREREQUISITES Top Secret clearance

Basic Orientation, or equivalent in Headquarters or Field experience

ENROLLMENT 10 to 65

DURATION Five weeks (200 hours)

LOCATION Headquarters

This course is for personnel concerned with administrative functions in support of the Clandestine Services. The material as presented is designed for officer personnel; however, those of the clerical level for whom increased responsibility and authority are imminent may be admitted.

Instruction is given in two phases - Tradecraft Principles and Administrative:

The Tradecraft Principles Phase introduces students to the basic principles and techniques of clandestine operations, and to the organization and functions of the Clandestine Services.

The Administrative Phase analyzes the interrelationships between operating functions and administrative support functions. Procedures, regulations, projects, PRQ's, name check, agent service record and termination methods, handling of Operational Approvals, information request and report, dispatch, pouch, cable and message writing procedures; domestic and foreign travel; finance and property accounting are emphasized.

The lectures are supplemented by case histories, practical work, films, seminars, and field problems.

TITLE Basic Supervision

OBJECTIVE Effective management at the level of the first-line supervisor

PREREQUISITES Top Secret clearance

GS-5 through GS-14

Present or anticipated supervisory assignment

ENROLLMENT 8 to 18

DURATION Two weeks: 4 hours each morning (40 hours), plus from 10-15 hours' unclassified reading outside scheduled class time

LOCATION Headquarters

The course is for persons from all major components at all levels through GS-14 who are directly responsible for personnel at the first working level. The objective is to orient the first-line supervisor to the responsibilities and authority which are characteristic of first-line supervision throughout the Agency. Presentations at the GS-12 to GS-14 level are titled "Supervision for Intelligence Officers" and are specifically geared to two types of individuals: (1) those whose main responsibility is substantive research but who also have some management responsibility as project leaders, and (2) those who guide or advise other Intelligence Officers or technical personnel in a staff or liaison capacity.

The course assumes that most students are carrying their own production workload, and that supervisory responsibilities are in addition to, and not in place of, their substantive, technical or production assignments. Particular emphasis is given problems of person-to-person relationships as the supervisor meets them in his responsibilities for training, communicating, planning and disciplining. Selected aspects of organization, leadership and control are also dealt with.

Each successive course is offered to a specified group, for example, GS-9 - GS-11, so that supervisors of a given general level of responsibility work together and so that specific course content can be adjusted to the needs and capacity of the participants. A limited number of non-supervisors being prepared for supervisory positions can be accepted, but the specific reasons for their attendance at the course should be made clear to them and to the instructor by the supervisor concerned.

The course content includes: reading, lectures, and group discussions of problem cases. Through these means students are guided in applying basic principles of sound management to the situations in which they are working.

TITLE Basic Management

OBJECTIVE Effective management at the Branch Chief supervisory level

PREREQUISITES Top Secret clearance

 GS-11 through GS-15

ENROLLMENT 8 to 20

DURATION Two weeks - 4 hours each morning (40 hours), plus 10 to 20 hours of unclassified outside reading

LOCATION Headquarters

The course is aimed primarily at the level of the Branch Chief, but is open to personnel above and below that level. Each successive course is offered to a specified group, for example, GS-12 through GS-14, so that supervisors of a given general level of responsibility work together. Students in the course are assumed to have at least one lower echelon of supervisors under their direction; for example, section heads. It is presumed that substantially full time on the job is spent in management activities (planning, directing, coordinating and controlling), rather than in direct substantive work. The course covers elements of management which are common to middle levels in DD/I, DD/S, and DD/P.

The course contains the following major elements: (1) a highly generalized job analysis of middle management responsibilities in the Agency; (2) a limited amount of general doctrine current in the field of management; (3) discussion of specific management techniques in use in Agency components; and (4) group analysis of problem situations and of case histories.

At every point the course emphasizes the student's responsibility for translating his own background of experience and the information exchanged in the course into the terms and problems of his current job assignment. He is encouraged to define his problems as specifically as possible, to select a line of attack, and to undertake his own solutions. The 40 hours of the course span two weeks in half-day sessions, so that participants may maintain daily contact with their offices and apply ideas of the classroom to the job situation.

In Intelligence Techniques the emphasis is on "learning by doing." In lecture-discussion periods students are instructed in methods of processing information for a variety of intelligence purposes. The techniques are then applied in a series of exercises, such as preparation of an OO-B report; abstracting or extracting information pertinent to a particular problem from a number of related documents; writing intelligence briefs, memoranda, and special articles. Practice is also afforded in the oral presentation of intelligence through a series of briefings on selected subjects and problems of current strategic intelligence. In order to obtain experience in intelligence research methodology, each student selects an intelligence problem and reports the results of his research.

TITLE	Reading Improvement
OBJECTIVES	Develop reading versatility, by improving accuracy and speed in scanning, informational and study reading
PREREQUISITE	Scores on a group of pre-training tests must indicate scope for improvement Course objectives must be applicable to job performance
ENROLLMENT	10 to 12
DURATION	36 hours - five 1-hour sessions per week for seven weeks, plus terminal interview
LOCATION	Headquarters

Experience and research demonstrate that average and better than average readers can improve their reading performance substantially, and that the higher skill level is retained permanently.

By increasing comprehension and developing flexibility in application of techniques, Agency employees can use reading as a more effective tool for gaining information. The course is designed to develop a wide range of reading skills so that the employee can adapt technique to reading problems of varying length, complexity, and familiarity. Flexibility in adjustment of technique to purpose and material increases accuracy and speed, and reduces the amount of effort expended in reading.

Each student divides approximately 75% of his time in the course among supervised practice exercises in study reading, informational reading, and scanning techniques. Many of the practice exercises are based on Agency documents of varying types. The proportion of course time each student spends on the specific reading skills varies on the basis of an analysis of his reading needs. The reading accelerator and other mechanical aids are used to control some practice exercises. They help increase the number of words seen at one pause of the eye, and eliminate unconscious regressive eye movements.

The remaining 25% of course time is devoted to lectures, group discussions, and individual consultation with the instructor.

TITLE Reading Analysis Program

OBJECTIVES Analyze relative proficiency in several kinds of reading skills to determine for individuals and office groups (a) suitability of employee's reading capabilities in relation to specific job requirements, and (b) probable degree of benefit which could be obtained from the Reading Improvement course

PREREQUISITE Secret clearance

ENROLLMENT 5 to 10

DURATION 6 hours: one hour per day

LOCATION Headquarters

This program serves as a preliminary analysis for the Reading Improvement course. The analysis of the employee's reading proficiency in scanning, informational and study reading tasks determines how well his reading skills are adapted to his job reading requirements, and indicates the areas in which he could improve.

A half-hour conference with each employee informs him of his strengths and weaknesses in reading, and provides a basis for self-improvement.

Upon request, the program is scheduled and adapted for any Agency component with specialized job reading requirements. Through consultation with the office concerned, a program is outlined so that employees' reading performance can be analyzed on the basis of their job reading tasks and materials.

LANGUAGE (INTERNAL)*

Introduction

1. Ability to use the languages of foreign peoples is essential to individuals in the business of foreign intelligence. Agency-sponsored training in language exists because the effectiveness of every intelligence officer depends as much on his possessing appropriate knowledge in this field as on his professional or technical knowledge.

2. The quantity and types of desirable knowledge vary considerably for different individuals and depend on the assignments and functions with which they are charged. Language courses and programs are designed to meet all degrees of need. These range from orientation or indoctrination to solid academic programs designed to provide fluency in a foreign language. It is recognized, however, that attainment of rounded fluency in a language requires from 2,000-3,000 hours of study in the easier languages and from 6,000-8,000 hours in the more difficult languages.

3. Facilities for providing required knowledge in language to Agency employees consist mainly of regular courses conducted by the Office of Training, supplemented by the Agency's language laboratory, and regular courses available at other Government training centers and at universities especially equipped to provide specialized training in languages (See AREA AND LANGUAGE EXTERNAL Section.) Internal language courses and programs are given on an Intensive (Full Time) basis, or a Part Time basis. (See ADMINISTRATIVE FOREWORD: Long Term Schedules, Charts No. 2 and 3.) For details on enrollment procedures, see the ADMINISTRATIVE FOREWORD.

4. Internal language courses listed in this section are either regularly offered or are available when there is sufficient demand. It is sometimes possible to offer courses on a one-time basis in a variety of other languages by utilizing qualified Agency personnel loaned to OTR for this purpose, or by employing consultants for intensive short courses.

AREA (INTERNAL)*

Introduction

1. The Office of Training has developed a program of internal courses on all foreign areas with intelligence significance for the U. S. Those courses which are available are listed at the end of this introduction. Additional courses will be announced as they are established. The courses are arranged within these categories.

2. Basic Country Survey:

An introduction to the study of the sociological, political and economic factors, which historically and currently influence the culture, attitudes, development and foreign relations of each country with which the United States is concerned. Each survey course deals with either a country of major interest, such as [REDACTED] or a group of countries, such as Indo-China. Each course consists of sixty (60) hours of classroom instruction, supplemented by directed outside reading, and is open to personnel engaged in intelligence collection, operations, evaluation, or support in connection with the country or countries covered.

25X1A

3. Regional Survey:

An introduction to the various regional aspects and developments of significant groupings of foreign countries, such as Arab States or Southeast Asia, the emphasis being directed toward the regional integrity or interrelationship rather than the component parts. Each course focuses on a grouping based upon political, economic, cultural or strategic factors and is designed to meet the requirements of the intelligence community. Each course consists of sixty (60) hours of classroom instruction, supplemented by directed outside reading, and is open to personnel engaged in intelligence collection, operations, evaluation or support in connection with the region covered.

4. Americans Abroad:

An introduction to social customs, significant cultural and national attitudes and sensitivities, traditional and current attitudes toward foreigners, and other matters affecting overseas duty in a given country or area. Each course focuses on the peculiar conditions and problems affecting personal and professional effectiveness in that country or area. Each course consists of fifteen to eighteen (15 - 18) hours of instruction. These courses are designed for all employees going to a country or area for the first time, and for their dependents, and for personnel who will be working with nationals from those locations.

*See EXTERNAL

5. Current Problems Survey:

A seminar program will be designed to develop a sharper appreciation of the elements and factors involved in the discharge of intelligence responsibilities, through the study of a specific phase of the political, economic or sociological aspects of a foreign country or area. Each course will consist of from twenty-four to thirty-six (24 - 36) hours of seminar discussion and occasional lectures, with a senior person experienced in the field of intelligence production and evaluation as moderator. Supplementary reading, group conferences and the preparation of seminar papers will be required. The courses will be designed for those who have completed an appropriate BCS or RS course or the equivalent thereof, who have had at least two years in the country or area concerned, or equivalent desk duty at Headquarters, and who are judged to have the other necessary qualifications for participation.

6. Omnibus Program:

This program will consist of the appropriate Basic Country Survey course or Regional Survey course, and the Americans Abroad course, plus language training, constituting full-time training of ten weeks' duration. Supplementary reading, preparation of papers, and laboratory drill will be required. These courses will be designed for all personnel engaged in intelligence production, operations, or services relating to the country, or region of concern, who are scheduled for overseas duty.

LANGUAGE AND AREA (EXTERNAL)*

Introduction

1. These offerings are not all-inclusive. External language and area training may be pursued at nearly all universities in the United States and at many overseas. Virtually no programs or courses are identical even though the subject may be the same. Final selection of institutions, and determination of programs, are made by the Office of Training on a basis of the stated objectives for training. It is expected that most needs for external language and area training will be met by courses and programs described in the Catalog, or by other programs later announced by the Office of Training. Only when required training is not obtainable through any of these programs, and is not available through other scheduled courses in academic institutions, should special, unscheduled programs be developed.

2. Requests should be submitted not less than one month, and preferably three or more months, in advance. A few of these courses are available only once a year and others only twice a year. The languages in greatest demand, however, are available several times a year. To assure accommodations for Agency employees, therefore, planning in some cases should be done much in advance, and early consultation with OTR is advised.

3. On an individual basis, area specialist programs can be developed for persons concerned with almost any area of the world. These programs are intended, however, only for exceptional employees whom it is desired to develop as rounded language officers with advanced fluency in all aspects of the language or as advanced area specialists.

5. Except for the Area Analysts Program, the Area Specialists Programs include one to two years of discipline language and area study overseas. Offices sponsoring individuals for these programs should plan field duty assignments to follow immediately the training period, for a period extended to total time for a normal tour of duty in the area. (Exception: USSR Program)

DEPARTMENT OF DEFENSE

Introduction

1. By authority of Public Law 110, 81st Congress, 1951, the Agency may request any of the components of the Department of Defense to accept Agency trainees in any of the Department's colleges or specialized training courses. Accordingly, the Office of Training has obtained specified quotas from Department of Defense senior colleges.

2. The mission of these schools is to train senior officers of the Armed Services and certain other government agencies to exercise joint high-level command and staff functions and perform strategic planning duties in their respective departments. Consequently, the Agency Career Service Board selects and recommends to the DCI for nomination to these courses, career officers of the Agency whose qualifications are parallel in age, training, and experience to the military officers attending each course. The Agency representatives are men whose present or prospective duties require a knowledge of current military doctrine, and who are likely to be collaborating with the Armed Services within the intelligence community in future years. At the same time, they must have had sufficient experience within the Agency to be able to contribute a knowledge of Agency functions and procedures to those phases of the military courses in which the problems of intelligence are implicit. Current requirements are included in Office of Training announcements when applications are requested prior to the dates for selecting candidates.

3. The Agency has had quota allotments at the principal service training courses in intelligence, including one at the Naval Intelligence School, and three at the Army's Strategic Intelligence School. Other intelligence courses are available in such subjects as prisoner of war interrogation, order of battle, and photo interpretation.

4. In addition to these senior command and intelligence training courses, individual employees may be sent to specialized training courses of all the Armed Services and to other special programs controlled at Joint Chiefs of Staff or Department of Defense level. In recent years such training has been obtained at the Aberdeen Proving Ground, at the Chemical Warfare Center, at the Naval Guided Missiles Course; at the Special Forces Training Center, Ft. Bragg; at the Infantry School, Ft. Benning; at the Military Air Transport Service's School, the Army Language School at Monterey, the Naval Schools at Anacostia; and at installations administered by the Quartermaster General, the Chief of Ordnance, and others.

5. The Office of Training maintains current catalogs of training courses and schedules published by the Armed Services. These catalogs list several hundred training courses from basic training to postgraduate study in such professional fields as engineering, law, and medicine.

MANAGEMENT (EXTERNAL)

Introduction

1. American businessmen have gone to the universities for help in studying the problems inherent in the growth of huge corporations. The responsibilities undertaken by both business and Government executives in our generation far exceed the expectations of fifty years ago. One result has been the inauguration of intensive training courses and seminars for men in senior executive positions, which are now conducted on nearly a dozen university campuses. The objective of these courses is to make the corporation executive a better man for his job and to prepare him for the assumption of still greater responsibility. Courses range in duration from six to twelve weeks and are held variously from once to four times a year.

2. Because the management problems of big Government are similar to those of big business, many officers of the Federal Government have attended these sessions in recent years, both as students and teachers. The Office of Training considers some of these courses to be effective in preparing qualified Agency employees for future advancement. The oldest, longest, and most intensive of these programs is the one conducted twice yearly at the Harvard Graduate School of Business Administration, where one Agency representative has been accepted for each of the last seven courses. The Agency has also sent men to the similar program conducted by the American Management Association in New York.

3. A brief description of the announced objectives of the principal advanced management courses follows, with a statement of the prerequisites for enrollment. Copies of the announcements of the current sessions of these courses may be consulted at the Language and External Training School, as well as others not included here.

It helps the participating executive do a better job in his present position and also prepares him to assume still wider responsibilities."

The course consists of five units, each taking one week to complete. The course subject matter is covered in the first four units, and the fifth unit is a clinic for the study and improvement of on-the-job applications which the course registrants have introduced in their companies.
